

MAINE'S COMMITMENT

To reduce opioid-related deaths by 1,000 from baseline predictions during the next 5 years

A systematic, clinician-led, collaborative campaign

*Modeled on the Institute for Healthcare Improvement's 100,000 Lives Campaign addressing preventable medical errors in hospitals

The Campaign seeks to implement a set of evidence-based Clinician-specific interventions to improve the treatment of opioid use disorders (OUDs) within Maine's medical community. Interventions will be addressed for:

- Hospital Emergency Departments
- Hospital Inpatient Care Providers
- Primary Care Practices
- Specialty Care Practices
- Dentists, Oral Surgeons, and other Proceduralists
- Behavioral Health Practices
- Pharmacies
- Correctional Facilities
- Others willing to participate

Led by Maine's physician and other clinician leadership, partnered with the State and other key stakeholders. All clinicians have a role to play and we appreciate all efforts of identifying and treating SUD/OUD and support recovery already underway. We understand this request for participation occurs in the context of many other ongoing challenges including healthcare workforce shortages and time pressures, so thank you.
